

MySpawn Growth Operator Plan

First 10 Sales in 21 Days · prepared 2026-08-27 · myspawn.me

Operating premise: sales > followers. A post with 200 views and 2 checkout clicks beats one with 50k views and 0 sales. Pricing throughout is the corrected fact: $99/year, billed annually; first 1,000 members lock the founding rate. Storage only — no medical claims, no ancestry, no cloning promises. Vault is video-first. Reddit conduct follows the standing reddit playbook.

1. Diagnosis — why views aren't money

- 1. A content factory with no store attached. 53 finished ad creatives, daily scripts, 2 publish-ready SEO articles — and it is still unconfirmed which pages are actually live on myspawn.me. Distribution exists; the destination is a question mark.
- 2. The price story was factually wrong until Aug 25. Everything said “$99, once” when it's $99/year. Anyone who clicked, saw an annual charge and felt baited — bounced, and told no one. Some of that archive is still what a stranger finds first.
- 3. $99/year in a brand-new category is a considered purchase, and the middle of the funnel doesn't exist. Nobody impulse-buys “DNA storage” off a 15-second video. The pages that close a considered purchase — custody FAQ, what-if-you-die, what-if-WE-die — aren't publicly answerable today.
- 4. Everything answers “why someday,” nothing answers “why this week.” Legacy is infinitely deferrable. The one real urgency asset — first 1,000 lock the founding rate — is a sentence in ad copy, not a visible, countable mechanic.
- 5. Selling to a demographic, not a situation. “Men 25–55” never bought anything. “Guy scheduled for a vasectomy,” “man starting chemo,” “new father doing his will,” “childfree planner” — those buy. Zero content names them.
- 6. The YouTube plateau is a mirror. 1,000 views, no subs, no sales = topic curiosity meeting a faceless channel with no promise and no reason to return. Dark ad-style shorts are paid formats posted organically; that's why they cap.
- 7. The market's default belief is that DNA companies die and your data gets sold. 23andMe taught everyone. The reddit playbook names bankruptcy custody as objection #1 and says without that answer, do not launch on Reddit at all. That answer page doesn't publicly exist.
- 8. The product's physicality is wasted. A real box, a 7-minute process, an accredited New Jersey facility — and no stranger has ever seen an unboxing, the timer running, or where the sample physically goes. Invisible category + invisible product = feels fake.
- 9. Followers were chased before a single conversion event was measurable. No UTM discipline, no checkout-start event, no per-platform CTR. Every view so far landed somewhere unmeasured.
- 10. The founder is missing from a trust-dependent brand. Anonymous accounts sell $12 gadgets, not custody of your genome. Blunt version: the machine is optimized for output volume, and volume is not the constraint. Trust and a checkout path are.

2. Offer + page fixes before ANY more distribution

Assumption: current site and analytics unseen; each item below is a “must be true.”

The 60-second stranger test. In one scroll a cold visitor must find: what it is, what it costs (annually, unambiguous), what's in the box, where the sample physically lives, what happens if they die, what happens if you die. Fail any = fix before another minute of content.

- Photo of the actual kit (not an illustration).
- One line: “A 7-minute at-home kit. Your hair + nails, preserved at an accredited US biorepository. $99/year.”
- Price-clarity sub-line (un-does the old wrong messaging): “$99/year, billed annually. Cancel anytime — your sample is returned or destroyed, your choice.”
- Primary CTA button: “Claim founding kit #<live number>” (live counter of 1,000; fallback “Reserve your record — $99/yr”).
- Secondary CTA (text link): “Read the custody answers first →”

The Custody page — the highest-converting artifact buildable this week

- If MySpawn shuts down: exactly what happens (GenVault continuity terms, return/destruction guarantee).
- If you die: who can claim it, how designation works. Can an ex or family member take it? No — named designee only.
- Do we sequence, analyze, or read your DNA? No. There is no genetic data to sell because we never create any. (The 23andMe-objection killer — bold it on the page.)
- Accreditation strip: CAP · ISO 9001 · ISO 20387 · FDA-registered, with the honest note “these are GenVault's accreditations, our independent storage partner.”
- Science strip: 31-year frozen-embryo birth; 2-million-year-old readable DNA (Nature 2022). Two links, no hype.

Checkout + mechanics + tracking

- Checkout: Stripe, max two steps, Apple Pay / Google Pay on, no account before payment.
- Founding Ten mechanic ($9): kits #1–10 numbered, rate-locked for life, optional public Founders Roll listing. No discount — added meaning, not subtracted price.
- Tracking, Day 1, non-negotiable: UTM per platform on every bio link (utm_source=reddit|tiktok|ig|yt), a checkout-start event, Plausible/GA4 on every page. If checkout starts can't be counted by source, the 21 days are astrology.

3. Platform ranking for THIS product

#	Platform	Use it for	Ignore it for	Time to first sale
1	Reddit	The first 5 sales: story posts in builder subs + disclosed founder comments where the objection already lives (23andMe threads, sperm-freezing cost questions).	Volume, frequency, virality. One good post a week beats daily anything.	Days 3–10 — fastest realistic path
2	YouTube	Search intent + trust face. “Sperm freezing cost” and “23andMe alternative” already exist as articles — the videos of those queries convert for years.	Daily shorts output; faceless dark motion graphics (that's the plateau).	2–4 weeks, then compounding
3	TikTok	Cheap hook R&D: find the 2-second wording that makes strangers comment “wait, this is real?” Winners become paid creative + YouTube content.	Direct conversion (link friction), follower counts.	2–3 weeks, mostly assists
4	Instagram	The shop window checked after Reddit/TikTok: grid = proof, highlights = FAQ/price/unboxing, Stories link stickers.	Reach growth from zero.	Assist-only in 21 days

4. Reddit plan (the highest-leverage 21 days)

Prerequisites (playbook rules): posts from the founder's real account, aged with ~2 weeks of genuine comments; disclosure in every post ("I'm the founder"); the Custody page live BEFORE post #1 — bankruptcy custody is the guaranteed top comment; never "design your descendant" or "bloodline"; links only when asked or where the format explicitly allows.

#	Subreddit	Why it fits / format	Example title	What gets you banned
1	r/SideProject	Self-promo is the point; weird + honest wins. Build story + photos + roast invite.	"I spent a year building a $99/yr kit that stores your DNA at room temperature. My mom asked if I'm okay. Roast me."	Link-drop without story; defensiveness
2	r/AlphaandBetausers	Explicitly for finding first users. Direct founder-kit offer.	"Looking for 10 founding users: at-home DNA preservation, numbered kits #1–10, rate locked for life"	Almost nothing; low risk
3	r/transhumanism	Ideological home; genome preservation treated as legitimate. Discussion-first dilemmas.	"Genome storage is now $99/yr. Founder here — the consent-of-the-future questions keep me up at night."	Pure ad copy; dodging hard questions
4	r/startups	Designated promo threads only: Share-Your-Startup + Feedback Fridays.	(in-thread) "MySpawn — DNA preservation, $99/yr. 0 sales, 21-day sprint to 10. What would you fix first?"	Promo outside designated threads
5	r/Entrepreneur	Loves real numbers + ick-factor honesty. Text-only, zero links.	"My product gets called 'beautiful' and 'eugenics' in the same thread. 0 sales. Here's my 21-day plan — tear it apart."	Any link; marketing speak
6	r/EntrepreneurRideAlong	Journey format native. Serialized: day 0 → first sale → day 21.	"Day 0: DNA storage startup, $0 revenue. Documenting the road to the first 10 customers in public."	Vague updates with no numbers
7	r/roastmystartup	Free CRO + warm traffic. Landing-page roast (links allowed by format).	"Roast myspawn.me — $99/yr DNA preservation. Why didn't you buy?"	Arguing with roasters
8	r/smallbusiness	Practical seller crowd. Question post, no links.	"How would you sell a product people find interesting but nobody thinks they need this week?"	Sneaking the URL in
9	r/Preppers	Continuity mindset; records/redundancy culture. Disclosed discussion, no link.	"Preppers plan for everything except their own biological record. Gap, or am I talking my book? (I am — founder.)"	Fear-mongering; undisclosed shilling
10	r/Biohackers	"Cheapest item in the future-self stack" frames well. Comment-first 2 weeks, then one disclosed post if rules allow.	"The cheapest thing in my longevity stack isn't a supplement. Founder-disclosed discussion."	Supplement-shill vibes; any health claim
11	r/InternetIsBeautiful	17M subs; the Imgur playbook. GATED: only if the Letter-to-2126 tool is truly free + no-signup; post the tool, never the kit.	"I made a free site where you record a message that can't be opened until 2126"	Any signup wall or storefront smell
12	r/Futurology (+ r/longevity)	Where the news pegs live. COMMENTS ONLY, EVER — disclosed founder answers on 23andMe/IVG threads.	(comment) "Founder of a DNA-storage company, bias declared: the custody question is the whole industry's problem. Here's how we answer it..."	ANY post = removed + brand becomes the day's punchline

Still banned, no exceptions: r/childfree, r/antinatalism, r/IVF, r/infertility, r/Fencesitter; no posts in r/genetics.

Comment engine (the actual sales machine — 30 min/day, every day)

- Saved searches checked daily: “23andMe”, “sperm freezing cost”, “DNA storage”, “what happens to your data”, “leave behind”.
- Substance first (custody law, storage science, real clinic cost numbers), disclosure line, link only when someone asks.
- Every genuinely engaged commenter or DM = a first-sale prospect ($9). Target: 10 real conversations per week.
- Never argue. Answer the hostile question first and fully.

5. TikTok + Instagram — 15 concepts

Same video on both platforms (Reels = same cut). CTA in caption + pinned comment; UTM'd bio link carries the click. Male-skewed tone (dry, practical, numbers) — not male-only. No retired lanes, no recycled fleet hooks. Max 5 hashtags each (specified per concept in the repo doc).

#	Type	Hook (first 2 seconds)	15–25s structure + on-screen text	Caption CTA
C1	CONV	Face to camera: “This costs $99 a year and nobody believes it's real.”	Hold kit → open → clippers/swab shown → “hair, nails, sealed, mailed.” Text: “$99/yr · accredited US biorepository”	“Founding kit counter is live → bio”
C2	CONV	Phone timer starts: “They say it takes 7 minutes. I'm timing it.”	Kit speedrun, timer stops 6:41. Text: “6:41. That's the whole thing.”	“Slowest part is reading the instructions. $99/yr → bio”
C3	CONV	Two price tags slammed on table: “Sperm freezing: $1,050 first year. This: $99.”	Which does what, 10s honest split → “different jobs.” Text: “$1,050–$2,500 vs $99/yr”	“Real clinic numbers on the site → bio”
C4	CONV	Deadpan: “If my company dies, here's what happens to your DNA.”	Death FAQ pt 1: continuity terms → return/destroy choice → “we never sequence.” Text: “We never sequence = nothing to sell”	“The page nobody wants to write. We wrote it → bio”
C5	CONV	“Your ex cannot claim your DNA. Here's who can.”	Death FAQ pt 2: named designee → what heirs see. Text: “Named designee only.”	“Custody answers, in writing → bio”
C6	CONV	Envelope on table: “I'm mailing my entire genetic record to New Jersey.”	Address it → why NJ (accredited biorepository) → mailbox. Text: “CAP · ISO 20387 · FDA-registered”	“Where it goes and who guards it → bio”
C7	CONV	Counter graphic: “Kit #4 of 1,000 just went to a guy in Ohio.”	Founders-roll update → rate-lock explainer → counter ticks. Text: “996 founding rates left”	“The number on the site is live → bio”
C8	CONV	Newspaper on table: “23andMe got sold. Your data went with it.”	What buyers bought → “we never create data” → custody page. Text: “No sequencing. No data. Just custody.”	“Data vs custody → bio”
C9	CONV	“Ask any 'preserve you' company this one question.”	“Is that the intro price or the every-year price?” → our answer in writing. Text: “$99/yr. Every year. That's it.”	“Pricing honesty or nothing → bio”
C10	CONV	Finger count: “Things men leave behind, ranked.”	Watch, tools, photos, debt (beat) → “one thing actually carries you.” Text: “The record > the stuff”	“For the guy who plans ahead → bio”
C11	AWARE	“Bats barely get cancer. Scientists just found out why.”	This week's Nature study → “written in DNA” → keep yours readable.	“Science thread → bio”
C12	AWARE	“Your grandfather left a medal. You'll leave 40,000 unsorted photos.”	Camera-roll doomscroll → “curation is the gift” → Memory Vault video message. Text: “Record one on purpose”	“Video messages, milestone-locked → bio”
C13	CONV	Voiceover, faceless b-roll: “No kids. Maybe never. Bought this anyway.”	“A record, not a promise” → childfree framing, zero pressure → price. Text: “Not about kids. About the record.”	“Undecided is a valid plan → bio”

#	Type	Hook (first 2 seconds)	15–25s structure + on-screen text	Caption CTA
C14	AWARE	“A company is spending billions rebuilding mammoth DNA from fragments.”	Colossal peg → “yours is intact, today, whole.” Text: “Yours is 100% intact. Today.”	“Whole > fragments → bio”
C15	CONV	Reply-to-comment: pin a real skeptical comment (“this is a scam”), answer on camera.	20s straight answer, no defensiveness, receipts on screen. Text: the comment itself.	“Keep the hard questions coming → bio”

Cadence: one per day max; every comment answered within an hour. C15 repeats forever — whenever a good hostile comment appears it outranks whatever was scheduled.

6. YouTube — fixing the plateau

Stop posting immediately: faceless dark motion-graphic shorts recycled from the ad pipeline (paid formats cap organically at exactly this plateau); anything without a human voice; any title that’s a vibe instead of a claim.

Channel promise (banner/about): “The honest economics and science of preserving your biological record.”

8 Shorts

Cut-downs of the TikTok winners, not separate production: C1 ($99 nobody believes), C2 (7-minute timer), C3 (two prices), C4 (if we die), C5 (who can claim it), C8 (23andMe custody), C9 (ask this question), C15 (comment replies — one per week).

4 long-forms (8–12 min, face on camera — the conversion engines)

- “Sperm Freezing Cost in 2026: What $1,050/Year Actually Buys (And What $99 Does)” — the existing article, spoken, receipts on screen. Search intent = buyers. [CONVERSION]
- “23andMe Sold Everyone's Data. Here's the Difference Between DNA Data and DNA Custody.” — second article, same treatment. [CONVERSION]
- “I Run a DNA Storage Company. Ask Me the Questions That Should Kill It.” — founder answers the 10 hardest objections straight to camera. This video IS the trust infrastructure. [CONVERSION]
- “Follow the Sample: What Actually Happens After You Mail Your DNA” — kit → mail → GenVault accreditations → shelf. Documentary proof the product physically exists. [CONVERSION]

Title formulas: [real dollar number] + [what it buys] · [known brand event] + [what it means for you] · [blunt question] + [honest answer]. Numbers and named entities in every title; zero poetry. Thumbnail rules: real object or real face; one big number or ≤4 words; LIGHT background (the pattern break — everything so far has been dark); no abstract helix art, ever.

7. Conversion vs awareness

Every asset is marked inline throughout this plan. TikTok/IG: 12 of 15 CONVERSION. YouTube long-forms: 4 of 4 CONVERSION. Reddit posts: CONVERSION except r/transhumanism and r/Preppers (trust/awareness). Calendar: 18 of 21 days CONVERSION (86%) — above the 70% floor.

8. The 21-day calendar (one primary asset per day)

Day	Primary asset	Platform	CTA	Success metric	Type
1	Page fixes: price-clarity block, CTA button, Apple Pay, UTMs, checkout-start event	Site	“Claim founding kit #_”	Passes 60-sec stranger test; events firing	CON V

Day	Primary asset	Platform	CTA	Success metric	Type
2	Custody page live (bankruptcy, death, designee, "we never sequence")	Site	"Read the custody answers"	Live; in nav + every bio	CON V
3	Both SEO articles on-domain with in-article CTA blocks	Site	"See the kit"	Live; Search Console submitted	CON V
4	C1 "$99 nobody believes it's real"	TT+IG+Short	Bio link	Link clicks (UTM), comments	CON V
5	r/SideProject founder post ("roast me")	Reddit	Profile → site	Comments, profile clicks, checkout starts	CON V
6	C2 "7-minute timer" unboxing	TT+IG+Short	Bio link	Saves + clicks	CON V
7	r/transhumanism discussion post	Reddit	None (trust)	Comment depth; 2+ real DM conversations	AWA RE
8	Long-form #1: Sperm Freezing Cost	YouTube	Description link	Watch time, clicks, checkout starts	CON V
9	C4 "If my company dies" (Death FAQ pt 1)	TT+IG+Short	Custody page	Custody-page views	CON V
10	r/AlphaandBetausers Founding Ten offer	Reddit	Direct link (allowed)	DMs + checkout starts	CON V
11	C3 "Two prices"	TT+IG+Short	Bio link	Clicks; comments asking price	CON V
12	C7 Founders-roll update (real number, even if #2)	TT+IG Stories	Bio link	Checkout starts	CON V
13	r/startups Share-Your-Startup thread entry	Reddit	In-thread link	Thread replies; clicks	CON V
14	Long-form #3: "Ask me the questions that should kill it"	YouTube	Custody page	Comments; custody-page views	CON V
15	C12 "40,000 unsorted photos"	TT+IG	Bio link	Shares / saves	AWA RE
16	r/Entrepreneur numbers post (wherever numbers stand)	Reddit	None (no links)	Comments; profile clicks; DMs	CON V
17	C5 "Your ex cannot claim your DNA" (Death FAQ pt 2)	TT+IG+Short	Custody page	Custody-page views; clicks	CON V
18	IG overhaul: grid = kit/facility/founders roll; highlights = FAQ, price, unboxing	Instagram	Story link sticker	Sticker taps	CON V
19	C11 bat science	TT+IG	Bio link	Comments	AWA RE
20	Long-form #2: 23andMe data vs custody	YouTube	Description link	Clicks; checkout starts	CON V
21	First paid dollar: $10/day behind the single best-CTR organic asset (likely C3 or C15)	Meta/TikTok paid	Site	Cost per checkout start	CON V

Daily floor alongside the calendar: the 30-minute Reddit comment engine ($4); reply to every comment on every post within an hour; a C15-style comment-reply video swaps in whenever a good hostile comment appears.

9. First-sale playbook (sales #1–#10)

Price call: keep $99/yr. Do not discount. A discount on a trust product from a zero-review brand reads as distress. Add meaning instead — The Founding Ten: kit numbers #1–#10, founding annual rate locked for life, optional name on a public Founders Roll (first name + state), personal founder note in the box. Costs nothing, makes #1–#10 a story each buyer retells.

Who to message, in order

- Your own list, 20 names, chosen by situation not closeness — the friend who mentioned freezing sperm, the buddy who just did his will, the prepper, the new father, the childfree planner, anyone who ever said “that’s actually cool.” Personal channels, one at a time, no BCC.
- Every Reddit commenter/DM who engaged genuinely during days 5–16.
- Abandoned checkouts (visible in Stripe) — one plain follow-up if the email exists.

Scripts

Warm 20: “Hey [name] — honest ask, no pressure. MySpawn is live and I’m hand-numbering the first ten kits. It’s $99/yr, your DNA record stored at an accredited biorepository, and the custody terms are in writing (including what happens if the company dies — page here). I thought of you specifically because [the real situation]. Want kit #[n]? If it’s not for you, telling me why is worth almost as much.” The last sentence is load-bearing: every “no” must produce a reason, and reasons become C15 videos and page fixes.

Warm Reddit DM (only after real interaction, never cold): “You asked the sharpest question in that thread, so — founder here, offering you one of the ten numbered founding kits before I talk about them publicly. No discount, because I don’t do fake discounts; you’d get the rate lock and kit #[n]. Either way, thanks for pushing on the custody thing — that page exists because people like you asked.”

UGC ask (after delivery, not at purchase): “Kit #[n] should have landed. Two asks, both optional: (1) a photo or 20 seconds of unboxing video — phone quality is perfect; (2) the most skeptical question your wife/friends asked when you told them. The second one might be worth more than the first.” Post every founder-kit unboxing to the Founders Roll + Stories. Ten numbered kits with real names and real unboxings is the entire social-proof foundation for sales 11–100.

10. Metrics dashboard (the only numbers for 21 days)

Cadence	Metric	Source	Why it’s the job
Daily	Checkout starts, by UTM source	Stripe + analytics	The only leading indicator of money
Daily	Purchases / founding kits claimed	Stripe	The job
Daily	Custody-page views	Analytics	Middle-of-funnel pulse; zero here = no content is working
Daily	Link CTR per platform	UTM	Which platform earns tomorrow’s effort
Daily	Real founder conversations (Reddit DMs + threads)	Manual count	Each one is a named prospect
Daily	Comments asking price / how to buy	Manual	Best purchase-intent signal on social
Weekly	Best hook by CTR	UTM + platform stats	Feeds the Day-21 paid decision
Weekly	Abandoned checkouts + stated objections	Stripe + replies	The page-fix backlog
Weekly	“No” reasons from the warm-20 list	Manual	Free market research from people who trust you
Weekly	Search impressions on the two articles	Search Console	The compounding channel’s pulse

Ignore for 21 days (say it out loud): follower counts · likes · views · YouTube subscribers · shares without clicks · impressions · being “consistent.” A post with 200 views and 2 checkout starts wins the week.

Execution note: the daily agent fleet currently optimizes for output volume, which this plan says is not the constraint. On adoption, the triggers get repointed: Image Ad Creative throttles net-new concepts in favor of the calendar's assets; Content Factory produces C1–C15 on the calendar's schedule; Longpost/Reddit work executes §4. That change is one instruction away.
